OAKLAND LINKED TO CRIME TALE

THREE MINUTE TALES BY AD SCHUSTER

BAIT FOR TERROR

S. F. Girl, Who Confesses to Shoplifting, Involved in Jewel Theft Here, But Was Freed on Probation

Operations Said to Cover Years and Extend to Many Coast Cities; Admitted She Robbed a Woman Friend

A chain of circumstances which appears to link Oakland with the girls' school for crime said to exist in Seattle, came to light here today. The revelation came about through an examination of the police record of Harriet Crothers, alias Rae Dupont, who is now in the city prison in San Francisco, a confessed shoplifter.

She admitted thefts total between $12,000 and $20,000. She stated that she stole 90 garments from a single store. Her confession included the statement that there exists in Seattle a girls' school for crime.

WELL-DRESSED MEN BRING RECRUITS.

"It has a number of handsome, well-dressed young men whose sole job is bringing in recruits," she disclosed. "The scheme is to trick a girl through love, then also according to his advances, the next step is the school, which is in Seattle. The first course is called 'study of human nature.' It includes visits to department stores where the professor points out the different kinds of salespeople and the varying degrees of ease with which different types can be fooled."

According to the confession the "school room" contained a miniature department store with shelves holding garments which require little fitting. There were ten girls in each "graduating class."

Harriet Crothers, under the aliases of Phyllis Martell and Dorothy Van Allen was arrested in Los Angeles on a charge of grand larceny by the Oakland police, on December 15, 1919. She was brought back to Oakland by Police Inspector Jacob McPherson.

On December 26 she was held to answer by Police Judge Mortimer Smith and her bail was fixed at $2000.

ACCUSED GIRL WORKED AS TYPIST.

Precious to this she had worked as a typist and had lived at the Hotel Sutter. She was arrested on complaint of Elizabeth Heraldson of 1211 Market street.

She said that in the early part of December, 1919, she met Mrs. Heraldson that her rent was too high. She said Mrs. Heraldson suggested that she come to live at the Heraldson home, where she could have a room for $15 a month.

About this time, she told the police, she met a man, whose name she did not reveal. She told him of her proposed arrangement with Mrs. Heraldson, and he told her he had a better plan.

SENT TO SEATTLE TO LEARN ROLES.

She said this man sent her from Oakland to Seattle, where she learned her fate and exposed both ways. On her return she went to live with Mrs. Heraldson in accordance with her agreement.

While there, according to her story, the man who had sent her to Seattle called on her and saw several thousand dollars worth of jewelry, belonging to Mrs. Heraldson.

At his suggestion, she said, she took jewelry and several hundred dollars when opportunity offered. Instead of turning the loot over to her preceptor, she is said to have pawned it on her own account.

She went to Los Angeles, where she was taken into custody.

Her police record shows that she had been arrested several times previous to her education in Seattle. On January 8, 1919, she was arrested in Venice under the name of Dorothy Van Allen and given thirty days on a vagrancy charge in the county jail. Later the same year she was given ten days in jail in Phoenix, Ariz., on a similar charge.

On July 18, 1919, she was arrested in Stockton on a charge of petty larceny, which charge was subsequently reduced to vagrancy. She was given a six months' sentence at that time, but commitment was withheld.

Following her arrest on the charge filed by Mrs. Heraldson she pleaded guilty to grand larceny on February 3, 1920. On March 3 she was placed on five years' probation by Judge James Quigley.

On June 2, 1920, revocation of probation was asked on grounds that she had left the country. On June 22, 1920, the probation revocation proceedings were dropped.

It was stated during her trial here that her true name was Augusta Ross Harris.

Bombings and Murders Are Cause of Roundup of All Leaders in the City, When Labor Strife Sheds Blood

"Big Tim" Murphy One of Men Arrested; 20 in Jail; Shootings Follow Running Battle After Gang Attack

LEASED WIRE TO TRIBUNE.

CHICAGO, May 10.—The police today raided the Building Trades labor headquarters and arrested three of Chicago's biggest labor leaders—"Big Tim" Murphy, Fred Mader and Cornelius Shea—in connection with bombings and shootings which early today resulted in the death of two policemen and serious injury of a third.

Murphy, known as Chicago's "labor czar," is out on bail after having been sentenced to seven years in the penitentiary in connection with the $400,000 Union station mail robbery. Mader is president of the Building Trades Council, while Shea heads the Teamsters' Union.

CHICAGO, May 10.—Twenty men, including officials of the Glaziers' union, were arrested today in connection with the investigation of the murder of two policemen.

BY ASSOCIATED PRESS
LEASED WIRE TO TRIBUNE.

CHICAGO, May 10.—Two policemen were shot and killed yesterday and two buildings bombed in a series of incidents attributed to labor warfare. The shootings were followed by a running pistol fight in which the killers eluded police.

Charles C. Fitzmorris, chief of police, immediately ordered every policeman on duty and directed that all labor leaders of whatsoever caliber be brought in. "I have ordered detention of every man who may have any information of the workings of labor attacks," he said.

POLICE THINK CENTRAL BOARD DIRECTED OUTBREAKS.

The dead are: Terrance Lyons, 30, active lieutenant, and Patrolman Thomas Clark, 30. The wounded man is Patrolman Albert Mueller.

Although the killings and bombings were in different parts of the city, police believe they were directed by a single hand, desiring to express resentment at enforcement of the Landis wage award, a decision handed down by K. M. Landis, former Federal Judge, acting as arbitrator in long drawn out dispute between members of the building trades council and contractors. The buildings bombed were a garage and a printing plant.

Patrolman Clarke, who was guarding a building previously bombed and under police protection, was notified of the garage bombing and a few minutes later a taxi driver notified police that three taxi drivers were fighting with Clarke. Officers found an unexploded bomb, all had been shot through the head and died on the way to the hospital. Police believe Clarke was killed by men who Monday night shattered the building with bricks and escaped in an automobile.

DRIVER FIRES WHEN COMMANDED TO HALT.

Lower Lieutenant Lyons, seeing a car speeding past a traffic signal, commanded it to halt. The occupants answered with a volley of shots which killed Lieutenant Lyons and wounded Patrolman Mueller.

Police believe that the bomb exploded in the printing plant was intended for a new building nearby, which is being erected under the Landis wage award. One hundred union printers were at work when the bomb exploded, but no one was injured. The bomb at the garage was thrown through a window in the rear of the building and exploded on the cement floor.

"It was easy enough," Slim explained, when he returned to the station. "All I had was the box, pole, sheet, bellows, phosphorus and a Maxim silencer."

From the cover he had shot the disk which released the lid of the pail to the pail to rise carrying with it the sheet.

The motion dropped phosphorus into the water and a released bellows furnished the moon.

"I am not telling in detail," Slim confided to Buzz, "how I knew that those fellows were so dave-gone superstitious."

Berlin Ordered to Pay U. S. $750,000

BY UNITED PRESS
LEASED WIRE TO TRIBUNE.

PARIS, May 10.—The council of ambassadors today announced its decision that Germany must compensate the United States for Zeppelin destroyed and not delivered in compliance with the treaty of Versailles. The council fixed the amount due the United States from Germany in this respect at approximately $750,000 million gold marks.

"The above cable apparently indicates that the council of ambassadors has decided the United States has suffered the loss of only one Zeppelin or smaller type aircrafts of depleted value.

The cost of a new Zeppelin would be considerably more than three million gold marks."

Law and Literary Lights Collide as Jack London Bust Goes to 'Drydock'

Club President Appeals to Court When Statue of the Famed Writer Departs.

Rudely snatched from its pedestal in the Martin Eden club, the bronze bust of Jack London has been carried into the center of cultured and caustic controversy.

It could tell a thing or two, if not the past, that Oakland's group of young writers have crossed their pens and jammed their typewriters and have gone their separate ways. It could explain the split in ranks which has been responsible for the formation of the Wolf's Head club, sundry arguments, and a request for a warrant of one of the members.

BY LAURENCE M. BENEDICT,
United Press Staff Correspondent.

WASHINGTON, May 10.—Republican leaders in the House last night delayed action on a bill to balk passage of the pending resolution calling for an investigation of the conduct of the Department of Justice in war graft cases.

BUST WAS GIFT TO CLUB, CHAMBERS SAYS.

That everything was not running smoothly in the ranks of those who were using London's name in their instruction was revealed when W. V. Chambers, past president of the Martin Eden Club, complained to the police that Carlton W. Kendall, author of "The Truth About Korea," had blown the dust off the top of the bust, tucked it under his arm, and departed.

The bust of Jack London has seen this trouble brewing and now that the crash has come the bust is the very crust and center of the row.

INVESTIGATION WOULD BLOCK JUSTICE.

Kendall, Chambers insisted, deserved to place the bust in the new quarters of the Wolf's Head club, which, he let it be known, was a rival organization set up of disgruntled members of the Edeners.

TO INVESTIGATE. Attorney Fred Daugherty, Chambers related, told the bust of the rift in the literary tale, the snake which came into the roof garden of the Edeners, and finished with an impassioned recital of the ignominious manner in which the bust had disappeared. It was a convincing story, all full of language, and Daugherty was equal to the occasion.

BUST BEING REPAIRED, KENDALL EXPLAINS.

"I see," he said, "someone swiped a bust."

If this story were dramatized and a work of that fiction in which its principals deal gallantly hoof-heats here would indicate the entrance of the wolf in the sheep's clothing. In real life things have a more prosaic habit. What Daugherty did was issue a citation to show cause why a warrant should not be issued for the arrest of Kendall on a charge of taking the London bust. It was more legal than literary, but, nevertheless, as Donahue remarked, so far as words went, it was a neat little combination.

Kendall appeared. He did not bring the bust. It was being repaired, he said, and as soon as it was all right he would return it to the original pedestal. He had never tried to make away with it except that he might have the opportunity to fix it.

GULF WIDENS BETWEEN RIVAL ORGANIZATIONS.

There were no arrests, the bust was not taken back, but the gulf between the Martin Eden Club and the Wolf's Head became wider.

After Kendall and the others left Donohue's office today, the attorney had an idea.

"What do you do when you repair a bronze bust?" he asked. "You wonder now, I suppose."

WHAT ATTORNEY-GENERAL DEMOCRATS TAKE ISSUE.

Taking issue with the attorney-general, Representative George W. Woodruff, Michigan, declared the former was requested six months ago to appear before Congress to hear the case of the miners.

IMMEDIATELY. Daugherty's letter was sent by the President, did not indicate in reply to a question on the floor as to whether he meant privileged status by the rules committee never would be heard from.

WHAT ATTORNEY-GENERAL COMB EXPLODES.

As she bent over the flame, the comb she was using caught fire, exploded and in a second the flames had enveloped her filmy garments.

Immediately Doris screamed Doris ran to her side and attempted to put out the fire.

Doris braved a wall of flame and ran with him through the hallway, as there was no other passage open between the front and rear of the house.

ON RETURNING. On returning for the other end, she discovered that the burns and smoke were then mounting through the ceiling and into the hall. She ran through the smoke and seized the smaller child, carrying him to the street.

She then returned to a room where the youngest of three children, 3 years old, was lying on the bed. Covering the child with her dress, she ran back through the smoke to the street. She was slightly burned about the head and hands.

THE BURNS. She was started on the highway some distance out. Despite the efforts of the driver, the horse was completely destroyed.

Two other horses, those of George Oremill, 722 Fifth street, and that of Joe Tidaldo, 722 Fifth street, were badly damaged by the flames.

HOWELL'S SON. Howell's son, who had just returned from the South, reached the room just after Doris had thrown her sister into the tub of cold water and was running around the room blind from the flames.

HOWELL'S SON. Howell's son, who had just returned from the South, reached the room just after Doris had thrown her sister into the tub of cold water and was running around the room blind from the flames.

DR. ERGO MAJORS. Dr. Ergo Majors, who was called upon to attend the young women, they are seriously burned about the body and are now in condition to be reprieved to a hospital.

S. F. POLICEMEN ON KLAN ROLLS; INQUIRY BEGUN

Peace Guardians Across the Bay Facing Double Probe.

SAN FRANCISCO, May 10.—While an investigation is in progress of alleged corrupt practices on the part of members of the San Francisco police, that body is to be subjected to an inquiry into charges that several police officers are members of the Ku Klux Klan.

Announcement to this effect was made yesterday, when District Attorney Lee Woolwine of Los Angeles sent word that a list of Klan members, seized in a raid on the Klan's state headquarters at Los Angeles, contained the names of San Francisco police officers.

The Sacramento, Bakersfield and Fresno police officers found to be members of the "Invisible Empire" have been suspended or dismissed.

District Attorney Ezra Decoto of Oakland yesterday received a list of Alameda county klansmen from the Los Angeles district attorney. Decoto said that the list included no prominent names, but it is but a brief one, and that he will keep it for his files, so should there be any need to proceed against members of the Klan.

The following organizations yesterday issued statements, denouncing the Klan as cowardly and contrary to the principles of democracy:

The Grand Lodge of the Independent Order of B'nai Brith; the Anti-Defamation League; the Scottish Rite Masons of California; the Knights of Columbus.

STRAW HAT MAKES MEAL FOR PIGSDon't Powder Your Nose!*PEGGY BLAMED IN SUICIDE ATTEMPT

"What's this I hear about the tragedy up in the country last Sunday? Ellen was telling me something about it."

"Tragedy? Why, sister, it would be funny if it wasn't so sad. Ned and I took the children up to Uncle John's, near Walnut Creek. Jane had on her new straw hat and she was so fond of it she wore it around the ranch and wouldn't leave it in the house, like you should have. It's a funny thing, but the youngster had never seen any pigs before and she couldn't keep away from that pig pen. She was leaning over the fence and slipped and her hat bounced right among the pigs. Jane was afraid of the pigs and came running for Uncle John and when they got back to the pen they were finishing a meal of straw, and a dozen or two was all that was left.

It broke the youngster's heart, of course. And, as she hasn't a hat to her name she must have a new one. It's a good thing we know about Cherry's at 615 13th street. We'll get her a new hat right away. One can pay practically anything they like down and make arrangements for satisfactory monthly payments."

Cherry's store for men is at 528 13th street.—Advertisement.

Prosecution Promised For War Contract Frauds

public attention "should have been strongly focused on these cases on the eve of their prosecution."

Given a special fund of $500,000, Mondell said he would prosecute his two wives, three additional judges and an additional grand jury in the District of Columbia. Daugherty said the work of clearing the dockets would be accelerated. Two cases of the "first magnitude" were ready for prompt submission, he said, adding, however, that investigation showed others "lurking in the shadows," and involved in the unlawful transaction and that principals and individuals in other parts of the country might soon be indicted.

Daugherty reiterated what he said recently concerning the case of the Lincoln Motor company in the litigation. Daugherty said that after hearing counsel for the company and others concerned, he had concluded that the matter should be submitted to judicial determination "and accordingly the claim was filed within the time allowed."

In this connection the attorney general sent to the President a letter from Federal Judge Arthur J. Tufts of the eastern district of Michigan, referring to "the recent newspaper notoriety" and saying: "I am sorry to say that Woodruff was entirely mistaken in making criticism" of the attorney general and the department of justice "in anything which has happened or failed to happen up to this time in protecting the government's interests."

At the conclusion of the reading of the letter, the attorney general said that he, too, wished to die because of the unrequited love for the beautiful "siren of the century," as they now call Peggy.

Paris is greatly excited over the attempted suicide of Munti. The general belief is that he, too, wished to die because of the unrequited love for the beautiful "siren of the century."

Carmel Faces Possibility of He-Queen of May

CARMEL-BY-THE-SEA, May 10.—This city, noted for its artistic pupils and down-with-improvisists, to have a queen of May?

Tonight will tell the tale, and meanwhile Classic Carmel is deep in the throes of another controversy. Here is the how of it:

On Saturday next Carmel will celebrate a twelve-day May Day. The features of the day will be the crowning of a Queen. At the present time a queen contest is being held. It ends tonight.

Today it became known that Evangeline Mosher, who is leading the contest and Earnestine Schwenninger, who is third, are not the daughters of the two well known men but the men themselves.

In private life Evangeline is Evan Mosher, landscape artist, and Earnestine is Ernest Schwenninger, the village grocer, who achieved immortality as a second in the Wilson-Criley fist fight.

Immediately the discovery became known to Robert Heron, poet and Bohemian club member and father of Constance, who is leading the women candidates and second only to Evangeline Mosher, arose to his feet and spoke.

"There are four things which must not be travestied," quoted Heron, "Beethoven's Fifth Sonata, the Serenade in the Mount, motherhood and young womanhood in its May contest."

"Carmel is falling beneath a spirit of false levity. Carmel is advertising itself as the home of buffoonery to the detriment of those who are trying to do serious and creative work."

"It does not seem fitting to me that young womanhood should be humiliated by such slippancy and silliness as has entered into the queen of May contest."

"A joke is a joke, but these two men have not withdrawn from the contest and they have gone on accumulating votes and holding leading places in the race."

Mosher and Schwenninger say that they have tried to withdraw,

but continue to acquire votes,

Conferees Agree on Ameri-

Chinese, Debit Boards.

WASHINGTON, May 10 (By the Associated Press).—Provision for American representation on two international commissions created at the arms conference is made under an agreement reported today between Senate and House conferees on the annual appropriation bill for the state and justice department.

House conferees accepted Senate amendments appropriating funds for American delegates to the commissions to consider revision of the Chinese tariff and to study the Chinese judicial system, including gradual abolition of extra-territorial rights.

Another Senate amendment accepted by the conferees appropriates $20,000 for the allied debt funding commission.

The House managers also accepted a Senate amendment increasing the state department confidential emergency fund from $100,000 to $400,000. This had been requested urgently by Secretary Hughes.

operation and proposing to terminate its work within a year was opposed by the house and finally eliminated, the Senate managers yielding.

Deadlocks on several amendments resulted in the conference. Among these, which are to be returned to the House for final disposition, was the Senate provision for recognition of Egypt and appointment of an American minister. The House conferees contended this was new legislation on an appropriation measure which would have to be taken before the House.

Other amendments returned to the House include provision for the Senate conferees to be reduced in appropriations for the International Institute of Agriculture at Rome and the British claims commission. A com-

conferees for continuance of the Alaska-Canada boundary commis-

We know the college graduate is a young lady of exacting tastes and with this knowledge greatest care has been exercised in choosing apparel—both inner and outer—that will be sure to please.

Graduation week Frocks

With so many functions to attend—private parties and the various festivities that attend commencement week the wardrobe must be given much consideration. Not that it must be so elaborate but more than all it must be appropriate. We have many clever, inexpensive frocks in silk for afternoon or evening wear. The designers surely must have had graduation in mind when the lovely frocks that have arrived this month were created. Of silk crepes, georgettes, taffetas, they are in rose, periwinkle, honey dew, seashell pink, Nile green and jade, carmel, and rust. They are quite the most youthful looking dresses we've seen in a long time.

For informal afternoon functions there are exquisite crepe dresses in pastel tints trimmed with beads or lace.

Prices begin as low as $19.75 and this price is on frocks you'll be proud to wear. Of course, there are many more expensive ones.

Value-Giving is a 33-year-old tradition of this store

There Are No Pockets in Shrouds

So a great California merchant told his department managers at a meeting not long ago.

The purpose of his talk was to spur them on to greater effort in building up the business. He said:

"Bigger business is for your interests, individually and collectively. It means greater buying power, increased salaries, more jobs for more workers. As for my part, there are no pockets in shrouds. I do not seek big profits for myself. I seek only that which means a healthy and continued growth. What is made goes back into the business, building a bigger and better store for my city, and satisfying more customers. I want my business to be something more than a department store—I want it to be a civic institution."

Here is a man whose ambition it is to be worth something in life to his fellow men, to his city, to his nation. When he passes on he would have his associates in life say, "He was a good, helpful citizen." not "What was he worth?"

And so, it is far better to be known after we have finished this earthly career, for the deeds we have done here, for the poor we have helped, for the boosts we have given the unfortunate, for what we have done for our city, our schools, for the promotion of the general good.

The bank book, the stocks, the bonds, the mortgages we cannot take with us. "There are no pockets in shrouds"; nor will these material things be remembered, but our good deeds will live after us.

City Women to Learn Art of Form Making

By EDNA B. KINARD.

Country women know how to make their own dress forms and not count it unusual. City women are wondering why more of them do not have this practical knowledge.

Hence the demonstration party on Saturday afternoon for which Mrs. Jessie Wool Gustason, chairman of civic activities, president of California Federation of Women Clubs, is opening her gardens at 2850 Telegraph avenue to several scores of club leaders. Invitations are going out today for the unique event, in which the hostess will have the co-operation of Mrs. Ernest Hadden, district chairman of home economics.

A half dozen clever women will come from Concord, Contra Costa county, to initiate the local club women into the mysteries of manufacturing a replica of their own forms upon which waists and blouses may be fitted and hung without the usual worry, fatigue and punishment that gives pause to the home seamstress in attempting to replenish her wardrobe.

Every woman knows the agony of turning out the blouse guiltless of wrinkles when she undertakes to "fit."

The Saturday party is designed to build up happier women citizens by lessening their worries and showing them how to be beautiful at reduced costs. The half dozen women who will demonstrate the making of the dress forms are identified with the Farm Bureau department under the University of California. They will not only narrate but will actually show how these simple first aids in home dressmaking may be acquired by any woman at little cost or effort.

Tea will follow the program in the garden, and refreshments will be served at Mrs. Gustason's residence.

President of the local clubs and many of the local leaders among women have been included in the informal invitation.

Women students in the University of California are indebted to the Napa Sorority Club for loans aggregating $1,100 during the past year.

In this way do those who attended the pioneer school founded by the Misses McDonald shortly following the close of the Civil War perpetuate its name.

A scholarship fund of $2,500 is being assembled by the club in token of the days when its members were students in the Napa Seminary.

The annual meeting was held this month at the home of Mrs. John Holland Mallet in Oak Ridge.

Mrs. Jessie Stillwell Chown was elected president of the association with Mrs. Jessie McDonald, vice-president, Mrs. Faunie Comwall Smith; secretary, Mrs. Minnie Marden Collins; treasurer, Mrs. May Baldwin Gilbert; directors, Mrs. J. H. Mallet, Mrs. William Fennell, Mrs. D. S. Keyser, Mrs. B. S. Wilkins, Mrs. E. C. Sutliffe.

Fifty guests assembled at the luncheon table. Members contributed the sum of $100.00.

Mrs. Mollie Melvin Dowling, Mrs. M. C. Wade Jr., and Miss Hill offered the musical numbers.

Nutrition work in the Cole school will receive a goodly support to-morrow, when the Parent-Teacher Association will be hostess at a tea in the Community House, 848 Union street.

Students whose parents cannot afford small fees to the school will be greatly deprived of the body-building food.

The Parent-Teacher Association meets the deficit.

To do this however, there must be a well filled treasury.

So it is the mothers offer tea, delicious home-made cake music and an informal hour to attain their end.

Mrs. Leon Boas will be chairman of tomorrow's tea.

Jay H. Nash, director of recreation in Oakland, will be the speaker on Friday before the regular meeting of the Parent-Teacher Association in the school auditorium.

He will show moving pictures of the recreational activities in Oakland and in the summer camp in the High Sierra, which will open its third season this month.

THE SUCCESS OF GENOA.

Senator Ricci, the Italian Ambassador to the United States and who now is in California on a visit, in an interview printed exclusively in THE TRIBUNE of yesterday, reminded the people of this country that they must not be too ready to convict the Genoa economic conference of failure. This is a timely caution. People everywhere are too ready to charge a project with failure just as soon as it omits to realize all the expectations entertained at the outset.

This was true of the Washington conference on armament limitations and Pacific questions. Although that conference went further than any other before it in attaining the objects of its original program, there were many citizens who were so anxious to find condemnation for it that they turned to the vain hopes of self-appointed program-makers outside the governments concerned to find a mean standard with which to measure its work.

At Genoa, says Senator Ricci, the fact that the Russians, the Germans and the Allies have been brought together at one table and are discussing matters of far-reaching importance to all the world, "is enough to stamp the Genoa conference with the hallmark of success."

This is a significance which all of us prone to criticism are apt to overlook. It is helpful to remember that until lately the nations were at war, and that each belligerent group holds the other in deepest distrust. Russia is not yet at peace with any country, having declared war on all civilization and all its forms of government that does not acknowledge socialism.

As the distinguished Italian ambassador says, other conferences are certain to follow Genoa. Success undoubtedly will be progressive. They will be a means of reestablishing confidence, of putting new tests to the sincerity and capacity of participating nations.

There was no specific statement of the aims of the Genoa conference. In general terms it was described as a meeting to consider the economic and financial rehabilitation of Europe. But no one giving the matter the slightest intelligent thought could expect it at a single stroke to accomplish the economic rehabilitation of Europe. That would imply ignorance of the extent of economic distress. So we must be prepared to acknowledge even the fact that a conference has been called and has endured for one month as a worthwhile measure of success.

TRYING BUSINESS PATIENCE.

In the May number of the Journal of Industrial and Engineering Chemistry is to be found an interesting account of the experiences of a business concern in Los Angeles. It was a clinical and analytical laboratory with which was connected a manufacturing laboratory. Its business was partly to make products for outside concerns, after the formulae of those concerns.

The multitude of state and federal laws, according to the head of the company, caused it to receive within a comparatively short time visits from the following species of the family of inspectors: Boiler inspector, Board of Health inspector, safety inspector (machinery), prohibition inspector, corporation inspector, county tax assessor, scale inspector, Board of Pharmacy inspector, narcotic inspector, fire inspector, city license inspector, and relicent sequentes.

While it is not cited as a typical experience, the patience of the heads of the company was well nigh exhausted when one day a boiler inspector called and enquired, "Which machine's the boiler?" and "Is this a copper or iron boiler?" and upon being furnished with the requested information handed over in a grand manuever his official notice, which read, "Boiler Inspected and Found in Good Order."

Not having heard the version of the boiler inspector and the other official visitors it is proper to point out that this is a one-sided tale. But it is important to consider that the chemical manufacturing plant and laboratories left California and went to Mexico City. One of their reasons was that they were not permitted to use alcohol, essential as a solvent and binder in compounding tablets, although the alcohol was later driven off in drying the tablets.

We cite this, not in defense of the chemical concern in question, because we do not know enough about it to undertake its defense even if that were desirable, but as an example of perniciousness in enforcing laws and the heavy trial of ignorance on the part of enforcing officers. Of course business must pay the expense of all the inspectors mentioned above. There must be maintained an expensive bureau for the administration of each of the inspection services mentioned. Yet one man of average intelligence ought to be able to perform all the work of all of them.

BUYING FOREIGN SECURITIES.

The investing power of the United States is shown somewhat impressively in the statistical returns of the Federal Reserve Bank covering the foreign loans floated in this country during the first four months of 1922. The total amount of the foreign issues absorbed in the American money market during this period was $508,657,000. This compares with $628,460,000 of foreign loan issues for the entire year of 1921.

Each of the first four months of 1922 showed an increase over the same month last year and the increase in volume in March and April was noteworthy—$15,513,000 in March compared to $57,768,000 in February and $203,030,000 in April compared to the $155,513,000 in March. These foreign loan issues floated in the United States represents all quarters of the earth—the Dutch East Indies, Ontario, Alberta, Quebec, Brazil, France, Melbourne, the State of Queensland, Brisbane, Manitoba, Uruguay, Argentina, Cuba, Dominican Republic, Romania, Czechoslovakia, Hawaii and the Philippines. While a comparatively small amount is represented by railway and utility loans, the greater portion is comprised of municipal, provincial and national government loans, the security of which is largely faith in the integrity of government.

In connection with this rather large volume of business in buying foreign securities, there has been a marked decline in the size of the favorable balance in foreign trade. During the calendar year of 1921 the credit balance on merchandise, including gold and silver, was $1,296,872,000, but when we loaned $628,460,000 in the same period we loaned approximately half of the trade balance. For the first three months of 1922—trade returns for April are not available—the favorable balance from foreign trade was only $83,973,000, while foreign securities sold in this country in the same three months amounted to $205,627,000.

But there is no need for alarm in this upward trend of investments in foreign securities so long as the security is dependable. It strengthens our future position in the foreign trade field and will not mean a scarcity of money for domestic purposes. For returns being equal, the loan investor will naturally prefer to loan his money at home when there is a demand for it.

Death of seven members of one family in the Canadian province of Ontario from eating wild parsnips turns the mind backward to a period when such tragedies were not unusual. There was a time when certain mountain areas were searched by frontier families for the wild edible roots. They were not always able to get the advice of the Indians and many deaths were charged up to experience. But in this day it is not expected that the white inhabitants search the forests for their vegetables. That the French-Canadian family in Ontario did not know the fatal quality of wild parsnip is a sad commentary upon its knowledge of woodcraft.

Mr. Frederick Van Rensselaer Dey, the originator of "Nick Carter" detective stories, died the other day, penniless after having written over 40,000,000 words. One might as well die after such an experience.

Probably Mr. Will H. Hays is worth $150,000 to the movie industry. But he should not take a chance at letting one Roscoe Arbuckle fix his salary for next year.

THE "FLAPPER" NO NOVELTY.

Johnson's remark that there is nothing new under the sun is recalled by the discovery that girls with bobbed hair—the kind called "flappers" today—were talked about in England during the reign of Charles I much the same as they are being discussed at present. One William Foyne imagined a "new effect" of the hair by elements as any who now flounce against them.

"Whence it?" inquired Foyne back in 1628, "that our immodest, manly and impudent viragoes of audacious men-women do so unnatural and shameless manner, as they stile them, in an odious and shameful manner, as if they were really transformed and transubstantiated into males by a stroke of the hand?"

The other popped delusion is that of a tarantula. We used to hear that a tarantula, hidden in a bunch of bananas, was more dangerous than six much dynamite. Both his ears were cut off as a punishment for being a scold. The authorities of his time apparently thought that if women desired to shear their locks it was their own affair, and nobody had a right to interfere with it as Foyne did.

While it is not cited as a typical experience,

The habit various organizations have of making the patriotic appeal to citizens to observe this "week" and that is at last arousing vehement protest. Some of the weeks are so foolish and some are so plainly conceived by advertising agents for the benefit of the manufacturers they represent, the really meritorious weeks are becoming lost in shuffle. The year needs to be a decade long to hold all that are offered. Last week, for instance, saw music, postal improvement, physical culture, boys' motorists' protection, cleanup, bicycle, and several other "weeks" on the calendar for observance or celebration. How did you mark them all? Did you ride a bicycle to work, whistling as you concentrated upon the unaccustomed steed? Perhaps you mailed a letter with a bought-in Oakland stamp and performed acrobatics while you waited for your change. The chances are you were appalled by the magnitude of the program. We are to have an eat-a-biscuit week, a smite the fly week, a pay-your-rent one, and a speak-kindly-to-the-neighbor week.

To all of this there would not be much objection were it not for the fact the appeals are made in the name of good citizenship and patriotism and some really good causes, like Boys' Week, are buried under a weight of piffing ones.

A story in real life:

On a Monday morning a banker in a Northern California town called his stenographer into his office and reprimanded her severely for attending a motion picture show on Sunday. She left his office sobbing.

On Tuesday he was arrested for stealing $200,000 of the depositor's money and he is now in jail.

The sun looked down and saw the tree.

With naked limbs and bare;

"Modesty like that!" said he.

"Will cause the men to stare."

Put on a dress, however brief."

The tree replied, "I'd just as leaf."

BERKELEY SCHOOL CLASH MAY BE TAKEN TO COURT

BERKELEY, May 10.—Threats that the legality of the reappointment of Superintendent of Schools H. B. Wilson for a four-year term without prohibiting him from accepting outside employment will be taken to the courts were made at yesterday's meeting of the board of education.

A lobby of 30 persons assailed the action of the board in boosting Wilson's salary from $6000 to $7500 per year and asked that a "legal contract between the school board and superintendent be drawn up."

Councilman Carl Bartlett's substitute resolution, submitted in the form of a contract prohibiting the superintendent from accepting outside remuneration for lectures, failed through lack of a second. Bartlett's action in urging that the superintendent's salary be kept at its present figure was applauded by the representatives of mothers' clubs and civic organizations present.

VOTE 4 TO 1.

By a four to one vote, the board again placed Wilson in charge of the Berkeley schools for another four years; raised his salary to include the upkeep of an automobile and allowed him a sum not exceeding $500 per annum for traveling expenses.

President W. R. Herms left the club over to Director T. E. Hink in order to present the resolution appointing Wilson.

Councilman Bartlett, in attacking the Herms resolution, declared that members of the board had violated the city charter for several years in allowing Wilson to accept remuneration from the University of California for lectures delivered there.

W. N. Ellis, former secretary of the state highway commission, declared that there was a deep-seated and long-standing feeling of rebellion in the community over the alleged mismanagement of school affairs. He was supported by Mr. and Mrs. John F. Johnston, Mrs. W. T. Cleverdon, Mrs. J. W. King, Mrs. Abel Mitchell and others.

THREATS OF SUIT.

Wilson defended his teaching at the university and other outside lectures by declaring that the board of education had agreed that he might accept remuneration from the university when he first came to Berkeley and stated that his action was upheld by the state board of education.

Threats of legal redress would be sought were made by Ellis and Mrs. Abel Mitchell, who declared that the fight against the superintendent would be carried to the courts.

Morris C. James, assistant superintendent of schools, was appointed for another four years at a salary of $4000, an increase of $100, while Clyde L. Blanchard was named as secretary and business manager of the board for one year at a salary of $4000.

INTEREST GROWS IN CAMP FUND

More Money Required if All Needy Children Are to Have Chance to Visit the Tuolumne Park for Rest

With the Oakland municipal camp in the Stanislaus national forest scheduled to open in ten days, interest increased in The TRIBUNE'S Mountain Camp Fund for Needy Children, which will serve to give a number of undernourished children a two-weeks' vacation in the open.

Almost $500 has been contributed to the fund up to date and prospects are that the fund will be increased to such an extent to allow practically every needy child in the city to spend two weeks at the camp.

The children's camp will not open until June 17, the day after the schools close for summer vacation, so there will be a happy contingent of kiddies who leave that day for a period of healthy outdoor fun in the Sierras.

The children who will be selected to attend the free camp will be picked from lists which are now being compiled by the Associated Charities.

Of the children selected will be examined at the health center to see that they are not affected with any contagious diseases, for the Oakland municipal camp is not a resort for the sick.

The cost of transporting and maintaining a child of from 5 to 12 years at the camp for two weeks is $15.65, while $23.25 will take care of a child over 12 for the same period. Any donation will be gratefully accepted. Contributions should be mailed to The TRIBUNE'S Mountain Camp Fund.

Athens Club Charter
Open Another Week

In response to a general request from the public and from the workers, the directors of the Athens Athletic club announce that the closing of the charter will be delayed until May 16.

It was originally planned that the charter would be closed May 11 as a "pop-up" committee of 100 members, headed by L. Cameron Fraser, was placed in the field to bring the membership up to 3000.

Such enthusiastic response greeted the efforts of the committee that at the last meeting a request was made to the directors to keep the charter open for another week.

It is anticipated that the much-discussed question of a site will come up for consideration at the next meeting which will take place on May 16. At this meeting it is further announced that plans of athletic clubs in other cities will be on exhibition so that members will be given an idea of what they may expect for a new club building.

The committee in charge of the "pop-up" workers consists of: L. Cameron Fraser (chairman), Milt Marzor, Harold Kotschinski, Lynn Stanley, F. H. Woodward, and S. B. Swan.

TRUTH IN ADS. TO BE MESSAGE OF ANNUAL MASQUE

Emphasizing the nation-wide slogan of the Advertising Club of America, "Truth in Advertising Day," is the theme underlying the production of the seventh annual Ad Masque to be presented in the Municipal Auditorium, Saturday night, May 20.

The Oakland Advertising club, sponsors and originators of the Ad Masque, is the first advertising club in the United States to present a message of truth and honesty in advertising.

According to Charles Chace, manager of this year's Ad Masque and secretary of the Ad club, as well as manager of the Better Business Bureau.

From the spectacle drama, "Aladdin," with its 300 dancing girls, to the last float in the parade ads, "Truth in Advertising Pays" will stand as the theme of the "Truth in Advertising." George Cummings, its author, has produced a spectacle drama of pretensions and thoughtful detail. In it will appear a cast of three hundred girls with a few masculine characters. The leads will be assumed by Miss Lillian Elkins as Aladdin; Maria Draga, 15-year-old motion picture star and former Oakland schoolgirl, as the princess; Woodsy Ross, as the Empress; and Blanchard, as the buzzard keeper; Miss Burdette Spencer as Ameera, the Hindu slave girl, and Joseph Paget Fredericks, University of California dancer, as the Genii of the wonderful lamp.

The Parade of Ads has been revived this year with more vigor than ever. A hundred firms are expected to participate. And every float will be different. Each firm will likewise have its "truth girl" garbed in white. The Goddess of Truth, who will occupy the throne during the presentation of the Parade of Ads will be Miss Minnie Diehl.

Gustav Walther, Belgian violinist, and Mlle. Jeanne Feront, Belgian pianist, will give a recital at the San Francisco Public Library on Friday evening under the auspices of the University Extension Division. This is the last of a series of seven free programs to which the public is invited.

SUSPECT MAY BE EASTBAY BURGLAR

An attempt to prove that Harold Richard Thompson is the "afternoon burglar" who has raided many society homes during the past few months is being made today by the police of the bay district under the direction of Chief of Police F. Becker of Piedmont.

Thompson is under arrest in San Jose on a charge of burglary and was subjected to a three-hour quiz by Chief Becker and officers of the Berkeley police department yesterday. He is suspected of three burglaries in Piedmont, fifteen in Berkeley and many others in this city and San Francisco.

"We were unable to secure a confession from Thompson," said Chief Becker, "but he did drop enough hints to give us clews to work on. His trail runs from the upper reaches of Berkeley to Burlingame and it will require several days for the officers to cover the ground with any degree of accuracy."

Thompson was arrested in Piedmont in 1920 for a series of burglaries and prosecuted on the charge of breaking and entering.

He was given five years' probation over the protest of the Piedmont police.

According to Chief Becker,

Thompson protested his innocence in his arrest, and that it is now up to the court to decide whether he should plead guilty or ask for special consideration from the court because of non-responsibility for his acts.

Only the scientific apparatus used by

Chief of Police Vollmer of Berkeley can decide this for them, he said.

Mentality Test Is Sought By Prisoner to Fix Plea

In order to find out whether to plead guilty or not guilty to the charge of robbery, James H. Markay today asked to have his mind and emotions probed by means of the modern scientific apparatus used by the Berkeley police department for testing the mentality and motives of criminals.

Markay is accused of holding up and robbing Mrs. Mary Scott, proprietor of a candy store, while she was giving birth to a baby. He had broken a nail shake. To a protest by Mrs. Scott, Markay is alleged to have replied that he made his living that way and that "business was business."

SUPERIOR JUDGE AND PROSECUTOR ARE THREATENED

Anonymous Writer Believed to Be Woman and Her Arrest Expected.

STOCKTON, May 10.—Handwriting experts at work today examining the threatening letters sent to Superior Judge George F. Buck and District Attorney Morgan A. Sanborn declared that they have a clew to the identity of the sender and that arrests would follow. The letters, it is said, are the work of a woman.

The anonymous letters were received by the two officials yesterday. The communications bitterly attack the judge and district attorney.

The letters are identical, both being written in typewriter on plain white paper. The writer of the letters was apparently inspired over the conviction and jail sentences imposed upon local chiropractors recently.

Both letters were signed "A. Bolshevist."

'Too Much Germany' Leads Wife to Sue

Charging that her husband insists Germany is a far better place to live than the United States, and that the former Kaiser is one of the greatest men in the world, Mrs. Clara Plate wants divorce from Frederick Plate. In her complaint, filed today with County Clerk George Gross, Mrs. Plate charges Plate with these opinions, which she says he reiterated, against her wishes and her beliefs, until his constant repetition became mental torture.

Plate, a native of Germany, is so enamored of things German, says Mrs. Plate, that he even naggs at her to change the name of their son Charles, aged 2, to Carl, which is a German name and therefore much better. Mrs. Plate declares her husband earns a salary of $500 a month. She is asking $150 a month alimony and the custody of their child. They were married in New York on September 19, 1919.

Woman Choked and Beaten by Intruder

Mrs. Elizabeth Martin, 1337 Myrtle street, was choked and beaten by a marauder in her home today. She told the police that the intruder entered a rear room of the house and that when she saw him she screamed, whereupon he began choking her. He fled without taking any valuables. The man is said to have been prowling about the neighborhood for some time.

HOLD ON AUTO CHARGE. George Scott was today held to answer in the Superior Court by Police Judge Edward J. Tyrrell on a charge of driving an automobile while under the influence of liquor. He was arrested on April 18, by Policeman H. T. McNeil at West Fourteenth street and Fruitvale avenue. His bail was set at $1000.

Alkali in Soap Bad For the Hair

Soap should be used very carefully, if you want to keep your hair looking its best. Most soaps and prepared shampoos contain too much alkali. This dries the scalp, makes the hair brittle, and ruins it.

The best thing for steady use is Mulsified coconut oil shampoo (which is pure and greaseless), and is better than anything else you can use.

Two or three teaspoonsfuls of Mulsified in a cup or glass with a little warm water is sufficient to cleanse the hair and scalp thoroughly. Simply moisten the hair with water and rub it in. It makes an abundance of rich, creamy lather, which rinses out easily, removing every particle of dust, dirt, dandruff and excess oil. The hair dries quickly and evenly, and leaves the scalp soft, and the hair fine and silky, bright, lustrous, fluffy and easy to manage.

You can get Mulsified coconut oil shampoo at any pharmacy; it's very cheap, and a few ounces will supply every member of the family for months. Be sure your druggist gives you Mulsified.—Advertisement.

U. C. Senior Play Saturday Night At Greek Theater

BERKELEY, May 10.—Plans have been completed for the presentation Saturday night in the Greek Theater of the senior extravaganza, "The Millennium," which will mark the opening of commencement week at the University of California.

This year's production, which has been written by Don Gillies, of Oakland, a student at the university, will be spectacular, according to members of the cast, with many colorful features.

The affair will include a musical comedy in which scores of men and women students will take part. One of the features will be a Russian dance.

The extravaganza is an annual event at the university and served to inaugurate commencement week. This year's production, according to directors, will completely eclipse anything of its kind ever staged before on the campus.

Funeral Held for Stanley Creed

Funeral services for Stanwood Hooper Creed, Piedmont High school student and son of Wigginton E. Creed, president of the Pacific Gas and Electric Company, were held this afternoon from the family residence in Indian road.

Rev. C. D. Mihikian, pastor of the Interdenominational Church, officiated. The lad died from tetanus after an illness of two weeks, in Adair Sanitarium at San Francisco, where he attended by six physicians. He was 16 years old.

According to the medical authorities young Creed had suffered from the tetanus poison for a year, although it had assumed a malignant form only within the past fortnight. The stiffening of the muscles in the jaw was at first ascribed to an infected tooth. Despite the heroic efforts of the physicians, however, it developed. Mr. and Mrs. Creed were with their son when he died.

Young Creed was in his second year in high school. He was a member of the Piedmont Troop of Boy Scouts. Beside his parents, he is survived by four sisters: Isabel, Patricia, Elizabeth and Marjorie Creed. He was the grandson of Mrs. W. H. Creed, a pioneer resident of this city.

Oakland Schools Keep Mothers' Day

Mother's day was celebrated in many Oakland schools today. This is a prelude to the general "Mothers' Sunday."

At Alexander Hamilton Junior High school an all-afternoon program was held. Mothers in the district were invited to inspect the school. A tea was served later by the girl pupils.

At Technical, Oakland and other high schools and larger grammar schools similar festivals are being held.

Campaign Begun to Prevent Grass Fires

As a part of the city's campaign against grass fires this summer, property owners in the Park, Piedmont, and Fourth Avenue districts have received notices to clean up their vacant lots, and similar notices are being prepared for the other districts.

Department Day will be observed on the campus tomorrow, beginning at 1 p.m. Half-hour recitals will be given in the music buildings. Exhibits will be on display. The Applied Arts buildings. Inspection will be made of the science, history, English and language buildings. Tea will be served during the afternoon.

The annual college dinner will be given at Hotel Oakland tomorrow night under the auspices of the class of '22.

The production of "The Matilda Poppy," written by Miss Marion Dwyer of Oakland, will feature Commencement Day on Saturday. The annual May festival of dance, music and pantomime will be staged on the shores of Lake Alviso.

Army Man, Girl Give Opposing Testimony

Captain H. Lester Barrett, U. S. A., of Fort McDowell, and 16-year-old Dolly Booth were opposing witnesses today in the divorce suit of Mrs. Etheline Booth against Charles E. Booth, a former Oakland candy jobber.

Dolly Booth, the plaintiff's daughter by a former marriage, told Superior Judge Koford that her step-father had frequently come home intoxicated and, and on many such occasions had flown into a rage because her mother refused to fight with him.

"When my friends ask me what caused the great change in me, I just say 'Tanlac,' and they seem to understand," said Mrs. Gertrude Hawkins, 3932 25th St., San Francisco, Calif.

Nobie knows what I suffered during the last nine years with nervousness and hysteria. About once a week I would have these awful spells and I just suffered agonies. I had rheumatism, too, and my knees hurt me so bad I could hardly bend them. I also had splitting headaches and suffered so from indigestion and loss of appetite I wasted away until I weighed only 105 pounds.

But Tanlac made a well nigh happy woman and today I weigh 130 pounds. I wish I could place a bottle of Tanlac in the hands of every sick person in San Francisco, for I believe it would make them well."

COAST STATES LEAD IN AVIATION

The Pacific coast group of states leads the nation in the field of aerial activity and enterprise, according to reports published by the Army Air Service. These reports state that 383 airplane landing fields are listed in the 9th Corps area, which comprises the states of California, Idaho, Montana, Nevada, Oregon, Utah, Washington and Wyoming. Since January, 1921, more than 45 additional fields have been laid out, and the air ports for seaplanes are growing rapidly along the coast of California, where this branch of aviation is said to be increasing in popularity as a sport.

The report for the 9th Corps area also mentions that commercial aviation is thriving, and that more than 30 operating companies are doing a successful transport business. Numerous cities, too, it is stated, are showing their recognition of aerial advancement, and 45 of these have splendidly equipped fields. Commercial associations are said to derive great impetus from energetic chambers of commerce, and clubs devoted to sport flying are being founded in many population centers.

As a summary, the reports state that there are more than 2100 established fields in the United States and Alaska, 190 commercial operating companies, 164 principal airfields, and 201 government stations. Among the cities and towns which have established facilities for aviation in the 9th Corps area, are mentioned: Oakland, Alameda, Bay Point, Berkeley, Hayward and Richmond.

NATIONAL GUARD TO HAVE PARADE HERE TOMORROW

Affair Arranged to Celebrate Opening of the New Armory.

All the National Guard organizations of the bay district will hold a parade through the downtown streets of Oakland tomorrow evening to celebrate the formal opening of the new National Guard armory, on Twenty-third street, near San Pablo avenue. Colonel David P. Barrows, commander of the 159th Infantry, and Adjutant-General J. J. Borree of the California National Guard, will act as reviewing officers.

The First Separate Battalion of Field Artillery, commanded by Major Harry F. Huber, including Batteries A and B and headquarters company, will head the parade, followed by the 159th Infantry, California National Guard; San Francisco Fort command, Coast Artillery units and band.

The parade will pass up Broadway from Eighth street and be reviewed at the new armory. Following the review, the public is invited to inspect the new armory. The armory is equipped with squad rooms, locker rooms, drill hall and, in fact, has everything that is needed in a modern armory.

Plans and problems confronting the employers. The banquet is an annual affair.

The entertainment program is in the hands of Ferris Hartman and Paul Steinendorff, who will produce an act called "Comic Opera Moments." Miss Edna Malone, Miss Christina McArdle and Miss Isabelle McArdle will assist in this act.

The following are the members of the committee in charge of the banquet:

L. Cameron Fraser, chairman; J. W. Rule, E. B. Stoddard, R. R. Smith, Ed. Doty, F. McDonald, W. Spencer, H. D. Jones, Joe Stevens, D. Williamson, R. Frauneder, V. W. Hunter, W. J. Rigney, D. N. In preparing the delinquent tax for publication according to law, it is necessary to file complete legal description of each piece of property. What this means may be judged from the fact that the description of one certain piece of property required 58 lines of newspaper type. The delinquent tax on this property amounts to but $9.26; will cost the county nearly half this amount to publish the description.

NEW BANKING CENTERS FOR EAST SIDE

BUSINESS BODIES
OF EAST OF LAKE
AREA ARE ACTIVEEnterprise Being Shown By

Oldest Section.

By CHARLES E. WARNER.

The identity, individuality, history and destiny of Oakland's Great East Side form a combination bewildering to the average resident of this interesting region and worthy of deep study by those interested in its growth and development of cities.

Generally speaking the East Side is that large area of Oakland which lies east of Lake Merritt. Practically considered from point of view of cohesion and common interest, it reaches east from a line commencing at First avenue, south of the lake, extending along the eastern shore of the lake and the eastern slope of Trestle Glen and then up Sheep's Canyon to the city limits.

All street car travel and a great deal of automobile traffic from Oakland's main center to this region pass along Twelfth street around the foot of the lake. Some automobiles take the route around the north end of the lake and out Excelsior, Hopkins, and other streets to East Side localities. Each locality of the East Side has its own peculiar problems, but in general the whole East Side has its interests in common, distinct from and yet allied with those of the great city of Oakland of which it is a part.

ORIGINAL SETTLEMENT.

Many people refer to the East Side as East Oakland and this may very properly be applied to the civic areas from Lake Merritt east, but East Oakland also means the old district from the lake to an indefinite point between Thirteenth and Twenty-third avenues which was the original settlement of the city and in which was established the first store in Alameda county, that of H. Tum Suden Company, in 1862.

From the point of view of statistics, the individualities as distinct as those of people. From this point of view, the East Side has more of the elements of separate entity from Berkeley, Piedmont, Emeryville and Oakland west of the lake than has either of the latter four as distinguished from the others.

While politically, financially and to some extent commercially allied to Central Oakland, and closely allied with the latter in all economic activities of major importance, there are many points upon which the East Side must inevitably unite to develop an individuality of its own. Which of the many localities shall show the greatest development is a matter of minor importance and largely dependent upon the ability of the people of the locality to pull together and make the most of the local advantages, for each locality has very definite advantages of its own.

ENTERPRISE SHOWN.

Strange as it may seem, East Oakland, using the term in its local sense, is now showing fully as much enterprise and cooperative spirit as any other section of the city. The East Oakland Merchants and Taxpayers Association has a number of enterprises under way which will, if they develop as they promise to,

President, Diamond Improvement Club.

The Diamond Improvement Club was organized for the purpose of securing needed improvements for the district and bringing the people of the district together.

The club, in its brief existence, has secured the paving of Fruitvale avenue, now the finest paved street in Oakland; the retention of a fire house in Dimond that was to be taken from us; a branch postoffice and numerous small improvements such as street lights, scarifying of streets, etc.

The largest undertaking of this club was securing the endorsement of the Civic League of Improvement Clubs for the saving of the famous Redwood Peak, as a public park; this magnificent grove is that large area of Oakland which lies east of Lake Merritt. East Side Tract Offers Home Site Opportunities

The eighty and convenient homesite tract known as Moss Estate, which is being handled by the Minney Company, presents a busy and attractive appearance, with forty families now living on the tract and thirty day houses in process of erection.

For the many more employed in various industries along Foothill Boulevard and living across the bay or in other sections of Oakland, the Moss Estate tract offers an opportunity well worthy of earnest consideration.

Aside from the question of convenience, it is difficult to picture a more attractive place to obtain a home than is to be found from the rolling land upon which these homesites are situated. The property is not only attractive as a location for a city home on a city lot, but it also offers the additional opportunity to have sufficient ground upon which to grow ample food for table use right on the home place. For people who have been interested in the erection of business buildings during the year.

An improvement committee was created consisting of C. F. Thompson, Ric. P. N. Hanahan, J. McHale. This committee will cooperate with a similar committee of Dimond Improvement Club to promote paving Thirteenth Avenue from East Twelfth to Hopkins Avenue and bring about removal of poles, placing all wires underground, thereby making this avenue an entirely modern thoroughfare.

East Oakland Merchants' base ball team has been recruited to full strength and Dan Whelan, C. Flinley and Dr. A. C. Nichols appointed as advisory board of this branch of association activity.

AUTOMOBILE ROW ALONG EAST 12TH STREET IS URGED

Main Artery Leading Into All Interior Country Held Place for Trade.

The main artery from Oakland leading to all the interior country is East Twelfth street, turning into East Fourteenth street at Twenty-third avenue. This street, from the lake to Thirteenth avenue, is admirably adapted to the automobile business in all its branches. The high rent district of Broadway for automobile row is gradually forcing the dealers out into smaller locations.

If the owners of property on this stretch of street would have some real estate agent work out a plan to consolidate the small buildings on grand, substantial leases it would be a very easy matter to bring the auto dealers there.

We have a few good garage buildings at present, one under course of construction, which shows that some of the property owners have had foresight and picked this street for the future automobile sales section.

A few months back the writer was approached and asked to see what could be done about putting up buildings for three of the large automobile concerns. One property owner said: "Why should I spend my money when the property is on the market?" Asked his price, he quoted a figure showing that he, too, figured the future value of this street and wished to realize it immediately, thereby blocking, temporarily, the market.

At the April meeting the committee on East Fourteenth street public lighting reported progress, no definite official action having yet been taken by the city. Answers were received from a large number of men and organizations whom the committee had been seeking concerning proposed changes in status of the State Railroad Commission. About 65 per cent of all answers favored no change from the present arrangement and it was decided that the organization should take no action in the matter.

David Oliphant, Alameda county jury commissioner, spoke on jury systems. It is intended to have a series of talks by eminent jurists on various settings of general interest, for the edification and entertainment of members of East Side Board of Trade.

Letter Tells of Results Brought By East Side Ads

Oakland, Cal., May 3, 1922.

OAKLAND TRIBUNE:

"Gentlemen—For some time the writer has been much interested in reading the alluring advertisements and interesting news items in your "East Side Section," which describes those new and active trading centers east of Lake Merritt.

"Just before Easter I had occasion to make many purchases of a varied nature and wanted to shop some place where I could park my automobile and find stores nearby where I could buy everything on my list ranging from Easter rabbits to hardware, so remembering your recent advertisements I drove over to the Dimond district (the nearest to my residence) and parked my automobile at the corner of Hopkins street and Fruitvale avenue and was agreeably surprised to find there various stores where I could make all my purchases within a very short radius of that point and as a result made all my purchases in a very short time.

"The merchandise I found to be of a very high quality and prices right."

"I am taking this occasion to write you this line as I thought it might be gratifying to you to know that your "East Side" advertisements are bringing concrete results."

"Very truly yours,

"J. CARL SELBERGER."

O'HARA AND YOUNG CARMEN BOX MAIN EVENT TONIGHT

NO SURPRISES YET IN PACIFIC COAST TENNIS TOURNAMENT AT THE BERKELEY COURTS

ANCIENT RIVALS MEET TONIGHT; FARRELL AND LYNCH ALSO MATCHED

Clever Scappers Top Local Fight Card—George Gibbons Will Meet Heavyweight.

By BOB SHAND.

The sharpshooters are having a terrible time trying to pick a winner in tonight's main event between Teddy O'Hara and Young Carmen. The way O'Hara handled Young Brown last week his friends can see nothing but Teddy, but every once in a while somebody comes along and take the joy out of life by recalling the last bout between the pair when O'Hara was knocked goofy with right crosses to the chin. Our present form O'Hara seems one of the best lightweights in the business, but it is quite possible that Carmen has his goat. It is certain that Teddy never will forget the pasting the San Jose boy handed him last time out and he may be a bit too careful tonight when he steps into the ring at the Auditorium.

Carmen put up some good fights across the bay and he also did well down in the valley. His showing here against Henry Pelsing last Wednesday night was not impressive, even though he did win. A few months ago Jack Davis went down to San Jose and belted Carmen on the chin knocking him cold. However, Jack admitted that was the only time he hit Carmen during the evening, while Carmen cracked the plenty. The referee and the rounds the bout lasted. However, the wallop proved something and that is O'Hara can knock Carmen out if he lands solidly. O'Hara is much harder hit than Jack Davis ever was.

Joe Lynch has bitten off a big mouthful in Young Farrell, but his manager, Dolph Thomas, says he knows how to handle him and he has informed his information to Mister Lynch. Joe is a good willing boy and he may know as much as Farrell in a few days. Just at present Farrell is the cleverest boxer and one of the wisest little four-rounders in the game.

Eddie White will have to hurry tonight if he expects to defeat Pete Francis. Last week White faced during the first two rounds and only a burst of speed in the last two innings got him a draw. Matchmaker Tommy Simpson read the riot act to White after the fight and told him that he would have to show more action in his next start or do his boxing elsewhere. White promised to hurry.

Terry Vargas and Jimmy Kelsey in a Preliminary.

Terry Vargas, the Philippine lad who took months to earn his stripes here, is back in town and will tackle Jimmy Kelsey. Ray Polkey, big heavyweight with a good record in the army, will make his debut with George Gibbons on May 20. Frankino Tucker, of Los Angeles, and Young Leonard, of New Orleans, fought a ten-round draw here last night.

Lightweights Top the Card At Auditorium

TEDDY O'HARA is back at the top of tonight's boxing card at the Auditorium with Young Carmen, the San Jose boy playing opposite. Here is the complete card:

TEDDY O'HARA vs. Young Carmen. Young Farrell vs. Joe Lynch. Pete Francis vs. Eddie White. Terio Vargas vs. Jimmy Kelsey. Geo. Gibbons vs. Ray Polkey. Joe Dunn vs. Al Sange. Johnny Conde vs. Johnny Marvin.

RUTH PREPARING FOR HIS GRAND RE-ENTRY

By DAVIS J. WALSH.

International Service Sports Editor
NEW YORK, May 10.—The afternoon of May 20 at the Polo Grounds promises to be very popular, especially indeed, with cash customers as numerous as flies in a restaurant kitchen.

This is the day when the eminent B. Ruth is released from the official displeasure of Judge Landis. Official attendance figures at the Polo Grounds to date have been a right fair indication of Ruth's popularity.

But if the event needs any further recommendation, consider the freak of schedule-jugglery which brings the St. Louis Browns to New York on the day of Ruth's return. The Browns are not only one of the leading pennant contenders but they happen to be right and title to Kenneth Williams, and Ken is the young man who has been Ruth to them over the fences several times during the season started.

Ruth versus Williams, the king meeting what may be the heir apparent, is bound to make a duel. That ought to pack them in.

In fact, the reserved sections at the Polo Grounds are sold out in advance, this being the only time in the history of the park that Ruth has been so seriously challenged.

If he so seriously challenged Ruth's supremacy, it would be a great thing for baseball attendances. They would want to compare the two, and the Brownies would be far distant when comparisons will be taken for granted.

WILLIAMS' THE SMALLER. Of course, Williams does not hit as hard as Ruth does, nor is he as good, possibly never will. For another, he hasn't the physique that Carlisle had. But the Brownie is a lean, sun-kissed individual of dour, lugubrious expression and few words, at least as far as the ballfield is concerned. He would make an excellent undertaker.

BOXING CHATTER

SEATTLE, Wash., May 10.—Jimmy Sacco, Boston lightweight, won from Joe Gorman, of Portland, in a ten-round main event at a boxing show here last night. In the semi-lightweight division, Billie Black of Denver, Jimmy Rivers, Tacoma lightweight, won a decision over Owen Roberts, of Seattle.

CHICAGO, May 10.—Pal Moore, Memphis, bantamweight, today closed for four matches which will be decided within the next three weeks. He will enter the Olympia in a ten-round contest at Atlanta, Ga., Monday night; Babe Asche, bantamweight of the A. E. F., in Denver, May 12; Dick Griffin in a ten-round contest at Phoenix, May 13; and Kid Panchito in a ten-round match at San Antonio, Texas, June 5.

LOS ANGELES, May 10.—Danny Kramer won a decision over George Spence in the four-round fight at the Vernon last night. Joe Fisher, Los Angeles, bantamweight, was awarded a decision in the first round, when Chet Neff, Los Angeles, his opponent, was disqualified for fouling.

NEW YORK, May 10.—Jack Shirley, New York bantamweight, was awarded a decision in the first round, when Chet Neff, Los Angeles, his opponent, was disqualified for fouling.

ELDORADO, Ark., May 10.—Frankie Tucker, of Los Angeles, and Young Leonard, of New Orleans, fought a ten-round draw here last night.

JUAREZ, Mex., May 10.—Lee Anderson, of California, world's negro light-heavyweight champion, successfully defended his championship here last night by knocking out Tiger Flowers, Atlanta, Ga., middleweight, in the seventh round of a scheduled 15-round bout.

OKLAHOMA CITY, Okla., May 10.—Jack Britton, pugilistic welter-weight champion of the world, will defend his title in a 12-round bout here, May 26, it was announced today. The fight will take the place of one originally planned between Johnny Wilson and Mike Gibbons.

DENVER, Colo., May 10.—Failure of Captain Billie Roher to receive railroad transportation to the west to be here in advance of his bout with Fred Fulton, scheduled for next Friday night, has resulted in the postponement of the fight until Tuesday, May 16, it was announced by the promoters here today.

Los Angeles, Calif., May 8, 1922.
Sports Editor, The TRIBUNE,
Oakland, Calif.

Dear Sir:—Rubidoux, the sensational hard-hitting bantam of Los Angeles, issues a challenge through your paper to meet any bantam in the city of Oakland or San Francisco, and we take pleasure in saying that such boys as Dynamite Murphy, Tom Morgan, Young Farrell, Jimmy Dinning, and others are in the same weight class.

We will take on either Spec Rambles or Hobby Erie if they will make 124 pounds ringside.

Rubidoux is a hard pitcher.

He is a hard pitcher and delivers the goods. He chased George Marks from one end of the ring to the other and ringside fans claimed he was entitled to the award.

Rubidoux has never boxed for the Northern fans and we would be glad to show what we can do if we are able to secure a barrier in either one of the Northern cities.

Dempsey Picks Carpenter to Defeat Lewis

By DAVID M. CHURCH,
International News Service Staff Correspondent.

LONDON, May 10.—Tommy Dempsey picked Georges Carpenter to win his battle with Ted "Kid" Lewis on Thursday night. Dempsey said positively that he would sign up to fight Carpenter again if the latter came.

Dempsey did not remain in London, but left late in the morning for Brighton, and looks like he will be there all day. Johnstone, formerly of the Cleveland Indians, and Second Baseman Pap Young, for many years an important figure in the world of baseball, probably would be with the Indians today if Speaker hadn't obtained Stuffy McNish in a trade with the Boston Red Sox. So, why was he not in London? He was leaving Dempsey said:

"I am sure that my next fight will be in Europe and that it will take place within the next six days. I may be welterweight champion, probably with Carpenter in London, do not think much of the proposal that I fight Jess Willard again."

Holohan High Gun at Indians' Big Powwow

DETROIT, May 10.—P. J. Holohan of Portland, a visitor from the teepees of the Pacific Indians, was high gun yesterday in the first 100 targets of the trapshooting tournament of the California Indians' pow-wow. In a high wind, Holohan broke 98 targets and ended with an unfinished run of 65. F. M. Neely of Sacramento shot 93 targets in Class A, and 93 targets in second in Class A.

Red Melius of Los Angeles, high chief of the braves, and Charles W. Perry of Visalia, held in Class A, 93; E. E. Nichols of Los Angeles, 94; and Jack Barr of Los Angeles, 95. Merle Martinez of Martinez, had 93 each.

J. G. Heath of San Francisco was high in Class B, with 90 and Lewis Price of San Luis Obispo, second, with 89. T. A. Work of Monterey took Class D with 82.

CANT KEEP HIM DOWN. The start off the first half will be made May 10, the close coming May 29. The series will open July 10 and close September 10.

TRY SPLICE SEASON. The Central League has decided to try the splice season idea again this year. The start off the first half will be made May 10, the close coming May 29. The series will open July 10 and close September 10.

Uncle Robbie

Your kind attention is called to the fat gentleman who labors patiently and well with the Brooklyn ball club. There is slight danger that he will get himself a dancing partner and go out to make the Dolly Sisters quit their spoofing. He is a very fat gentleman, indeed, but knows more about handling pitchers than any man this side of the water.

They said Your Uncle Robbie had traded away his chances when he turned Pfeffer and Marquard loose, but you will notice that Dazz Vance has stepped into Pfeffer's shoes and Dutch Reusch is pitching better ball than Marquard ever showed in Brooklyn.

ENTITLED: "TRAGEDY"

The sound of lightly falling chimes
Rang out upon the midnight air.
The man sat back and squeezed his mitt,
He peeped just once and threw a fit.
He had but one, long meaty pair.

The sound that thrills the golfer's heart,
A射 shot hit for old time's sake.
With knowing smile he took the trail,
You should have heard that poor golf wail.
The ball was floating in the dark.

The sound of pigskin booted hard,
The crowded stands and all that guff.
Young Stewid braced his sturdy feet,
To dash along on gifted cleat—
You should have seen that terrible miff.

ADD LOONEY LINES

Rid Norfolk will be unable to fight for some time owing to a sunburned nose.

A British critic deplores the modern trend of lawn tennis tournaments play as developing competitive spirit rather than orthodox style. The stylist, he complains, rarely wins nowadays. Which is really too bad, indeed.

If this individual had his way lawn tennis results would be determined on the theory and practice of esthetic dancing.

Suggestion to be taken for what it may be worth, or even less: Bar all lawn tennis experts who will not agree to be graceful, dexterous, polished, spick, span, symmetrical, and above all else, appealing to the feminine eye.

Fighter Gets Decision; Says He Didn't Win

ATLANTA, Ga., May 10.—The unusual spectacle of a fighter refusing to accept a referee's decision in his favor was presented to a crowd of boxing enthusiasts at Ponc de Leon baseball park last night when Jake Abel of Atlanta, A. E. F., welterweight champion, fought Johnny Tramblay, Portland lightweight, in a ten-round bout at the San Jose, Calif., Auditorium. Jimmy Rivers, Tacoma, lightweight, won a decision over Owen Roberts, of Seattle.

CHICAGO, May 10.—Pal Moore, Memphis, bantamweight, today closed for four matches which will be decided within the next three weeks. He will enter the Olympia in a ten-round contest at Atlanta, Ga., Monday night; Babe Asche, bantamweight of the A. E. F., in Denver, May 12; Dick Griffin in a ten-round contest at Phoenix, May 13; and Kid Panchito in a ten-round match at San Antonio, Texas, June 5.

LOS ANGELES, May 10.—Dannie Kramer won a decision over George Spence in the four-round fight at the Vernon last night. Joe Fisher, Los Angeles, bantamweight, was awarded a decision in the first round, when Chet Neff, Los Angeles, his opponent, was disqualified for fouling.

NEW YORK, May 10.—Jack Shirley, New York bantamweight, was awarded a decision in the first round, when Chet Neff, Los Angeles, his opponent, was disqualified for fouling.

ELDORADO, Ark., May 10.—Frankie Tucker, of Los Angeles, and Young Leonard, of New Orleans, fought a ten-round draw here last night.

Leaving the Alameda mole at noon next Sunday sixteen yachts of the Aeolian Yacht Club will take part in the handicap race for the Jones Trophy cup, according to announcement made this morning by Secretary C. A. Dozier of the Aeolians. At the same time the list of handicap winners made public on the first day in which the Pathfinder is set as the only boat on scratch.

The course mapped out for the race is as follows. The boats will leave promptly at noon from the Alameda mole on the port hand of the Aeolian Yacht Club, the foot of Folson street in San Francisco, leaving the mark there on the port hand. Thence the course will wind around the point, one-half mile south of the harbor works on the Alameda shore, which will be left on the starboard side. Leaving the Alameda, the boats will be turned to the mark off Hunter's Point, leaving the mark there on the starboard hand. The final lap of the race will bring them back to the Aeolian. The marks there must be rounded on the port hand to the finish.

HOW NAPOLEON SLEPT

ANDRE TRIDON

IT was one of the details of Napoleon's biography which prompted me to question the old belief that we sleep because we are tired, and need rest.

Napoleon was all his life a great worker. An omnivorous reader slept up every library in every city where fate might lead him. After a hard day's work he would sit up until all hours of the night devouring everything from novels to astronomy, from poems to calculus. Then a short nap and he would be up again and ready for the next day's work.

Defeat, however, returned with it, drowsiness. After Waterloo, when the dream of his life was shattered forever, and England decided to protect the world against him, he was exiling him on a remote island. Napoleon became heavy sleeper, eight hours, then ten, then twelve hours were necessary to "rest" his then inactive body. After Waterloo, reality had become so unbearable that an escape from it through the unconsciousness of sleep was most welcome.

Nansen, the explorer, never required many hours of sleep. When marooned in the Polar wilderness one winter, doing nothing and exasperated by his enforced idleness, he would feel tired all day and spend as many as twenty hours in bed sound asleep, out of the twenty-four.

CHAPTER XV.

Julius Explains.

Mrs. Merrill's answer came after what seemed an interminable length of time, and my heart seemed to turn over with relief and then go on beating more normally when she spoke.

"Oh, yes, we liked him well enough at first; he is so much older than Julie, and he seemed rather vague about his business interests. Do you know anything about them? What does he do?"

At that moment the door opened and Julie herself came into the room. She looked quickly from her mother to me and with the uncanny intuition common to youth she grasped the situation.

"She's talking about me!" she exclaimed.

Her mother turned her cold blue eyes on the girl disapprovingly.

"Julie, I do wish you would learn to come into a room properly. You're too old to stamp around like a child. I was just asking Hawthorne about your new friend who was here for dinner the other evening."

Julie's brown eyes flashed into mine. She as well as I appreciated the seriousness of the situation.

"Oh, mother, any one would think that I was planning to marry the man tomorrow. What difference does it make what he does?"

No one cares these days when a person does not think of people being young as long as he doesn't commit the deadly sin of being a bore. Hawthorne, come into my room, won't you? I'm dying to show you my new evening gown. It just came home today."

I rose with alacrity.

"Excuse us, mother; we'll be back in a minute." Julie threw over her shoulder as she carried me off. And the next minute we were in Julie's dainty bedroom with the door safely closed behind us.

"Julie, how could you?" I exclaimed. "How could you tell your mother that you had met this man through me?"

Julie flushed. "I know it was a beastly think to do, but you know me well. And you needn't be ashamed of having introduced us; he's wonderful, even mother was impressed."

"But I don't even know him; I don't know his name or anything about him. You had no right to tell your mother what you did without at least speaking to me about it. It isn't like you, Julie, to do a thing like that. I am disappointed in you."

"I intended to tell you the very next day. I wanted to post you so that if mother tackled you, you would know what to say. I didn't think you two would see each other until I had a chance to explain. But as for telling a lie, I'd tell any kind of lie for him. You ought to understand, Hawthorne, you love Julie, and you wouldn't hesitate at a lie for his sake."

Julie spoke passionately. Her dark eyes glowed. "I'd do anything in the world for him, anything. I can't understand why he is interested in me to the extent of coming to dinner at this stupid place. He must know any number of interesting women, and I feel so young and awkward when I am with him. And yet he does like me a little and I love him. I've told you this, Hawthorne, he's the most wonderful man in the world."

Julie spoke with a queer kind of intensity and her young face was very serious. I could well believe that any man would be attracted to her, above all, an older man who was evidently wearied with life. The good-looking type of woman, and whose rather refined senses were piqued by the fresh loveliness of a very young girl.

Clarice PatternsLadies' and Misses' Dress.

(No. 1366)

Typical of many of the new smart frocks is the fullness at the neckline and the loose raglan sleeves as is shown in this model. A very likable feature of this style is that it requires little or no fitting and if a soft clinging silk were selected for it the result would be charming.

The ladies' and misses' dress pattern cuts in sizes 16 years, 36, 38, 40 and 42 inches bust measure. Size 36 requires 4 1/8 yards 36-inch material with 2 yards binding. Price 15 cents.

How to Obtain Clarice Patterns.

Write your name and address plainly, including city, giving the number and size of such patterns as you want. Enclose 15 cents in stamp or coin (wrap coin carefully) for each number, and address your order to Clarice, Pattern Bureau, Oakland, CALIF. As these are ordered specially from Chicago, a few days should be allowed for delivery.

How Logs Became Drums

YOU HAVE OFTEN heard of the small drum, and the bum-bum-bum of the big drum.

Have you ever thought of how people learned to make the drum? It was invented long ages ago—way back in the Stone Age. During the many thousands of years which have passed since, it has been improved until we have such drums as we see today.

And now, no matter how savage seem to have a sense of rhythm. This means they are pleased by regular beats.

The customs of savage tribes of the present day (many still use tools of stone) lead us to believe that the first drum was a hollow log!

Let us imagine that one day three Stone Age hunters went out into the woods to kill some game. They came to an open space in the forest, saw an old half-broken log, and sat down to rest. For a while they talked—if we could have heard them, we might have said they "jabbered" for we could not have understood what they were saying. One of the men had a club with him. Absent-mindedly he pounded it on the log. To the surprise of all, the stick made a booming noise!

The hunters jumped up and looked around. Then the man with the club pounded the hollow log again, making his blows harder.

"Boom! Boom! Boom! Boom!" That is the noise the hollow log made.

The companions of the man heating the log-drum were no longer alarmed. They liked the regular sound. Their feet seemed to want to move, and the men began to hop around on the ground. Each time the boom sounded, they lifted or lowered a leg.

Knowledge of the log-drum—possibly gained in this way—was kept by the tribe, and passed on to the next and the next.

"And I want to know why you aren't I'm going to nibble your ears," said Uncle Wiggily.

"Oh, dear!" sighed Uncle Wiggily. "I have thought of something. 'I get you some milk for your coffee this morning,'" asked the rabbit uncle.

"Yes," grumbled the Growler, "I will and switched his tail from side to side."

"Wait a minute then," said Uncle Wiggily. Quickly he hopped from the cave and into the plant which had been broken. "Mr. Wood," begged the bad chap, finding fault with you again. "Please, give me some of your white juice that I may give it to the Growler as milk for his coffee."

"Of course I will," the plant answered. "Take as much as you wish." So Uncle Wiggily filled a hollow stem with the white juice of the milk weed plant, and took it to the Growler.

"What made you say you weren't the milkman?" grumbled the bad chap, finding fault with the last.

"Well, I skip along! Don't stay with me, the human boy is glad enough to hurry home with his ears safe. And let us hope the Growler felt better after drinking his coffee with milk weed juice in it."

Now the gas explosion doesn't send the egg beaten out to whip the carpet, and make tears come into the eye of the needle. I'll tell you next about Uncle Wiggily and Baby Barefoot.

George Andrew Corle

By Alameda County Association of Optometrists.

Optometry—pronounced Op-tom-e-try—defined by the laws of forty-eight states, several provinces of Canada, Australia, New Zealand, our own possessions, Hawaii and the Philippines, "to be the employment of any means other than the use of drugs for the measurement of the powers or range of human vision or the determination of the accommodative and refractive states of the human eye or the scope of its functions in general or the adaptation of lenses or frames for the aid thereof"—from the California State law approved by Governor George Pardee, 1903. There are local and state associations.

A national association, whose president emeritus, Dr. R. C. Augustine, is touring this State addressing assemblages on Conservation of Vision, will be in Oakland Monday and Tuesday, May 15 and 16.

His message will be one of "Take Care of Your Eyes."

Dr. Augustine has a pleasing personality, is a forceful speaker and gives a fund of information to all who do and do not think of their eyes. There won't be a dull moment at the Municipal Theater on his public appearance on Tuesday evening, May 16th, at 8 o'clock.

MY FAVORITE STORIES

IRVIN S. COBB

Something to Look Forward to

A hustling free-lance in the white goods business thought he saw a magnificent opening to buy up a bankrupt's stock of underwear and by a quick turnover among the jobbers to realize a handsome profit from the venture. By persuasive arguments he succeeded in inducing a Bowery bank to let him have a hundred thousand dollars in order to swing the deal. The deal was swung, but for some reason or other the enterprising speculator was not able to move his newly-acquired stocks as rapidly as he had figured on. Maybe the wholesale market was sluggish at that particular time, or maybe it was that a sudden change in weather conditions had impaired the demand for all-wool union suits.

Be this as it may, one morning the president of the bank sent word to the borrower that he desired to see him immediately and the latter promptly answered the summons.

"Look here, Mr. Jacobson," said the banker, "I'll have to call your loan and I'll have to call it immediately."

"But, Mr. Slocum," protested Jacobson, "you couldn't do that. Still I am all tied up with them stocks and I must have more time."

"I'm sorry for you if you're going to be embarrassed," said Mr. Slocum, "but I can't help myself. The state bank examiner was in here yesterday going over our books and he tells me we must clean up a lot of our accounts, especially where he has loaned money on merchandise. Now, your note for a hundred thousand dollars is a demand note, as you will recall, and not a time note, so I must ask you to be able to take up that note not later than Wednesday, the 15th of next month."

"Well," said Mr. Jacobson resignedly, "that's the way things go. Vot has to be has to be, I guess." He thought for a moment.

"Mr. Slocum," he said, "maybe you have yourself looked into the ins and outs of underwear, eh?"

"Mr. Jacobson," said the banker, "I'm not interested in the underwear business."

"Vell," said Mr. Jacobson softly, "you should be. Because Venesday, the 15th, you're going to be in it."

MOVING PICTURE OF A MAN TRYING TO SLEEP IN A RAILWAY SEAT

SCENE—Man curls up on a seat, placing head on window, legs and feet on opposite seat.

Feet slip off.

Ledge begins to hurt head.

Shifts, putting head on arm of seat near aisle, and tucking feet under him.

Fairly comfortable.

Train takes curve and sun pops into his eyes.

Gets up to pull down shade.

Tries to remember how he was lying.

Can't quite get feet back into comfortable position.

Train takes another curve and sun shines in from window across aisle.

Gets up and secures hat. Puts it over his eyes and surs up on seat again.

Train comes to sudden stop. Hat falls off. Feet slip off:

SUB-TITLE (CENSORED)

Man tries to rest head, but place seems to be all angles.

Finally rolls up overcoat and uses it for pillow.

Gets feet parked but can't quite arrange hands.

Sticks one in his pocket and sleeps on other.

Doesn't quite work out that way, so he shifts hands.

Still doesn't work—tucks both hands under him.

Drops off into fitful slumber.

Train takes curve. Suitcase totters in upper rack, then falls on man.

SUB-TITLE (CENSORED)

Goes through all the agonies of getting settled again.

Tired young mother comes in.

Carries baby who is even more tired.

Tired of everything.

Man tires to sleep in spite of baby.

Baby finally quiet down.

Man, now in desperate need of sleep, curls up in tight—?

Drops off into light slumber.

Begins to sleep deeply.

Now thoroughly comfortable and sleeping beautifully.

Conductor stalks down aisle and looks at him keenly.

Grabs him by shoulder and shakes him awake.

SUBTITLE: Conductor: Ticket, please.

Man: (CENSORED).

HARMONICA WINS PRAISES OF FANS ON ETHER WAVES

Basso Profundo Is Unable to Sing at Concert; S. F. Star Next to Be Heard.

Due to a pressing business engagement, Robert Carlson, basso profundo, who was scheduled to sing last night on the ether waves from The TRIBUNE'S broadcasting station in the Hotel Oakland, was unable to do so, the radio fans as he has done two occasions in the past. In his place came John T. Smith, who played the harmonica. His selections were of his own composition.

It was very seldom that anyone attracts so much attention and comment as did Smith on his harmonica last night. The radio fans were more than pleased. The telephone rang at intervals for more than an hour. Numerous listeners expressed their approval. It was probably due mainly to the novelty. However, it is admitted that, regardless of the novelty of the instrument, it was the first time so far as is known that the harmonica has taken its place on the air—the music was excellent. The tones of the harmonica seem to be soft and pleasing, and the music from this instrument came in very distinct. Smith will play again in the near future.

Miss Anita Sullivan, San Francisco star, now appearing at the New Franklin Theater, was the second contributor to The TRIBUNE'S broadcast on Friday evening.

Arrangements are being completed today, and will probably be in effect Friday night when The TRIBUNE comes on the air, whereby a broadcasting studio, for every convenience, and the operators, will enable The TRIBUNE'S program to be broadcast without the slightest interruption between numbers, as has occurred in the past.

Among the artists selected for future entertainment is Robert Carlson, Miss Sullivan, Keeke's Hawaiian Quartet, John H. Smith, Francis Harmonic Jazz Orchestra, Milliken's U. C. Jazz Band, and several others yet to be announced.

Hawaiian Quartet Concert Praised

Bonner Whitcomb of Mill Valley, a radio enthusiast, expresses his approval of the Hawaiian string quartet which played last Friday night from The TRIBUNE's broadcasting station on the Hotel Oakland, in a letter to President D. Allen, radio operator for The TRIBUNE. The letter is as follows:

"Mill Valley, Calif., May 6.

Radio Editor TRIBUNE: To-night's concert was grand. It carried me back to years ago when I was in Honolulu, and it makes me sort of lonesome, too. The steel guitar comes clear and strong.

"Thanking you for many evenings of pleasure, I am,

"BONNER WHITCOMB."

RADIO AT PYTHIAN MEET. One of the largest receiving and broadcasting radio outfits on the Pacific coast will be installed by the Great Western Radio Company, Inc., at the Sunrise convention of the Northern California Knights of Pythias in Muir Woods, July 3 and 4. D. H. Wyckoff of Oakland, director of the convention, has just returned from a visit to lodges in Napa and Sonoma counties with the assurance of 100 per cent attendance.

ART AND ORATORY CLASSES.

Classes in commercial art and public speaking will be offered by the university extension division at Elmhurst Hall during May 11 under the direction of Mrs. Shepard, and room 108 of the Hotel Oakland under John Campbell Macmillan, respectively.

ANSWERS TO QUESTIONS

Radio Editor TRIBUNE: May 1 please take one of my friends off the exhibit list of the large magnavox. Can he get in with me on my pocket card?

ADRIEN GENSOUL,
631 Merriman street, Oakland.

Only the bearer of the pocket card is admitted.

Radio Editor TRIBUNE: How far can I receive with a set consisting of a Relytone grid, a 12A7, a 12F7, a coupling tube, "B" battery, Murdock receivers, and 200 feet of No. 14 copper wire, 100 feet long and 50 feet higher? Inclosed is a diagram of what I have. What will it be?

JAMES A. ELLIS,
1736 Thirteenth avenue, Oakland, about 50 miles. Two wires are O.K.

Radio Editor TRIBUNE: I would three wires 40 feet long, better or just as good as one wire 100 feet long for an antenna for a crystal set.

4. Would rubber insulated wire do for an aerial?

5. Could I get a hook-up for beginners and at what price?

GEORGE LECKNER,
178 Broadway, Alameda.

1. About 150 feet, using No. 22 wire.

2. About 4,000 meters.

3. Perhaps 30 miles.

4. Tin foil.

5. Any radio store. The price will depend on what book for beginners you choose after looking them over.

Radio Editor TRIBUNE: (1) How many strands should there be in a radio room for only a 50 foot antenna?

2. Would you please tell me how I can make a loud speaker?

3. NICHOLAS PODOLSKY,
3205 Peralta street, Oakland.

Tribune Radio Club Member, No. 561.

1. Four strands.

A simple loud speaker may be made by fastening a telephone receiver on the end of a phonograph horn, or it is still better to put both receivers on the horn, making a tube which will fit in the horn and onto which may be fastened the receivers.

2. No.

3. If the wires are very close, if they are 50 or 75 feet away we do not believe you will get much interference from train power lines.

4. How far could one hear with such a set, a Crosley two-step amplifier and an aerial 75 feet high and 100 feet long?

5. At what transmitting stations (music) are within 50 miles of Tahoe Tavern?

6. How much does a good "A" battery cost?

7. How far can one hear with a TRIBUNE crystal set?

MADISON R. JONES,
265 Vernon street, Oakland.

1. We have no information regarding this type of receiving apparatus.

2. Probably 100 miles.

3. None.

4. From $15 to $25.

5. About 20 miles.

Radio Editor TRIBUNE: I have an A-P tube, a rheostat, loose plate over the entire roof of your mouth, which interferes with your taste and speech. Roofless cannot be had elsewhere. It has taken eight years to perfect and make a difference whether you have teeth of your own or not.

The man who says, "It can't be done," suddenly awakens to the fact that some one has done it.
